Breaks for Salt Lake.—The Bulletin says: We note round sales of raw sugars to the San Francisco and Pacific Refining Company as detailed elsewhere. We remark considerable parcets of Crushed and Hawaiian Sugars in process of bagging, which upon inquiry of the Front street jobbers we were told were for Salt Lake. The sugar is taken out of the barrels and then put into strong linen bags, weighing 90 lbs. each, and then put into gunny sacks.

The Naw ATLANTIC CABLE.—A recent telegram having stated that the Great Eastern had sailed to take on board the new Atlantic cable, the subjoined clipping from the Scientific American has double interest:

Obituary.

Died at Lahaina, Mani, October 15, Capt. Michael James Nowllen, aged 67 years. Deceased was a native of London, singland. He passed most of his early life on board of an English ship of war. He was at the bombardment of Algiers, under Lord Exmouth, in 1816. He came to these islands in 1859, and resided here till his death. He was one of the ploneer sugar planters, having together with the late Salomon Barrows planted the first came at Ulupalakua, on the site of the present Makee Plantation. They were successful, though on a small scale, having only about from 75 to 100 acres of came planted. But owing to deceased suffering with asthma, he was obliged to leave that location and disposed of the place to L. L. Torbert, Esq., in 1845, after which time he as engaged in the coasting trade for several years. During the past two years he has mostly resided at his farm on Molokai.

THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 22. It is with pleasure that we take our pen to notice the Report of the MINISTER OF FINANCE, published on our fourth page; the more so, as it is seldom now-a-days that a state document appears, free from glaring faults, and not open to deserved censure. Although his Excellency has been in office but some eight months, the report bears the impress of familiarity with the business of the department and with the prospective wants and resources of the treasury. The machinery of the Government has long been established, and whatever may be its defects and faults, he cannot be held responsible for them, until time has been given to remedy them, and to apply the proper legislation.

The Report opens with a state. receipts of the public treasury for PREWTO years ending March 31st, 1864, which were as follows : From Custams Duties,.....$201,541 20 1uternal Commerce, 57,354 30 Taxes, 131,729 05 Fines and Penalties,..... 30,019 3 Fees and Perquisites, 19,243 41
Government Realizations, 94,436 06
Miscellaneous sources, 154,363 81

Aggregate Receipts from all sources as pertable A $688,687 21 Referring to the items, we may explain that the "customs" receipts are derived from duties on merchandise and liquors imported from foreign countries-the duty being mostly 10 per cent, on the gold value of foreign merchandise, and $3 00 a gallon on liquors, with some few exceptions. The receipts from "Internal Commerce" embrace all the licenses issued from the Interior Department, for every kind of business requir-

"Internal Taxes" embrace the taxes on real and personal property ($30,546,) carriages ($1,384.) polls ($32,245.) horses ($52,326.) mules ($3,080,) dogs ($10,038,) &c., &c.

"Fines and Penalties" are the receipts from the various Courts throughout the kingdom. " Fees and Perquisites" are derived from passports, brands, Custom-house fees, and stamps,- mainly the latter, which produce $11,125. "Government Realizations" are derived from rents ($21,269,) wharfage ($16,582,) water rates ($19,702.) sales of real estate ($13,655.) towage of steamer Pele ($10,323, which is less than her expenses, the latter having been $11,601,) and from the sale of various other government property. " Miscellaneous Receipts" embrace for the most part borrowed money. As compared with the previous biennial term, the last shows a small gain, which is accounted for in the increase of $25,000 from duties. This latter item may now be considered as the most reliable source of revenue we have, and with increasing domestic exports, will show an annual $148,550 for exchequer bills which fell due during the biennial term, which about equals the sum borrowed on the faith of the government during the same time. The interest raid on the public debt during the last two years was $42,270, and the treasurer states that a reduction of about 9,000 in this item has been effected. The public debt on the first of April, 1864 was $166,649.

Regarding an increase of taxes, the Minister very justly says:

It would be inexpedient to increase the taxes at the present moment, because their increase would proportionally retard the progress of native industry. For from hindering the actual endency to agricultural pursuits, it is the duty of the Govern ment to foster it by all means, and to carefully and quietly reroove the difficulties in the way. The closer the connection of man with the soil, the more easily destroyed are the roving

The importation of machinery free of duties has unquestionably given an impetus to the manufacture of sugar, and will continue to do so, so long as this policy is pursued. But cannot the government do something more for other branches of agricultural industry, in which machinery is not so much needed by the natives? In the culture of rice and cotton, for instance, the natives do not require much if any "machinery," but if suitable premiums were allowed to be given to the largest native cultivators in each of these and perhaps other branches of industry, it would tend to increase our productions very much. A premium of $100 to the largest cultivator, $75 to the next, $50 to the next, and $25 to the fourth, to be awarded by the Minister of the Interior on satisfactory evidence, -would operate as a stimulus, and within two years raise our production of these articles to perhaps a million of pounds-which would certainly be a great result for so trifling an outlay.

What is said in the Report about our imports and exports will be read with interest, and the more so because it is sound and correct. Our exports are now nearly equal to our importations, and so long as this continues to be the case, our islands will improve in wealth and agricultural resources. The remark made by the Minister respecting imported goods being invoiced "at a mere nominal value," has, we hear, given offense. It applies, we suppose, to the cargoes of lumber imported from the mills in Puget Sound, at rainously low prices, lower, we understand, than others have to pay when the same article is imported from elsewhere. There is no question that "consular certificates" ought to be attached to every invoice, but the fee for the same ought to be placed so low as not to be felt as an onerous expense, -say one or the utterance of personal invectives. two dollars for each certificate.

On the whole, the public will be pleased the report, and with the exhibit of the national finances, and doubtless award the Minister the credit due to him. If he continues to show the same impartial honesty, and possesses the firmness to carry out the good suggestions referred to in his report, he will most happily disappoint many, who considered his nomination to the most important office under the Hawaiian Government as injudicious and unwise. Were all the public offices filled with men showing as good intentions and acquitting themselves as well as Mr. Varigny has done in this report, the people would have less cause of complaint against the government.

A Brief Explanation. No report of Legislative proceedings appears in our paper. A few words will explain why it is. As the po isher of the only English and Hawaiian papers, we offered the free use of the columns of both the Advertiser and the Kuokoa to the Legislative Assembly, provided it would furnish such a report as it wished printed, and pay a moiety of the cost of setting it into type, two dollars per diem for each paper, or $24 a week. This by no means covers the full cost, for the expense during the last session of the Legislature, averaged $5 00 a day for the English paper, and about $3 00 for the native paper, for frequently we had to issue supplements expressly to supply the reports or to give foreign news, which could not well ' excluded. We thought it proper that the gov-ernment should assist, at least as little as was About ards publishing its own reports, inasprinted for twenty years at an expense of at least $10 per diem. The American Congress pays for the publishing of the Congressional Globe, which is issued only during the sessions of Congress. The Legislatures of New York. Pennsylvania and Ohio, each pays for its official reports, and the same remark holds true, we presume, of other States.

The Committee on printing to whom the matter was referred, consisting of Messrs, de Varigny, Heuck and Dominis, reported in favor of accepting the offer made, as the best mode of publishing the journal of the house. The offer embraced the printing of as full at report as the Legislature chose to have-be it long or short. four columns or twenty-all the debates, resolutions, laws before being passed and after passage, and even the rules of the House, if required. A more liberal offer could not possibly have been made, nor one showing less inclination to take advantage of our position, as sole publisher. The presentation of their report. on Tuesday evening, was the occasion of a sharp debate, in which our offer was denounced as an insult to the Legislature. We have been furnished with a report of this debate. from which our readers can judge how much more dignified the new composite structure of Nobles and Commons is, than was the old House of Representatives: M. DE VARIGNY, as Chairman of a C presented a report that we had agreed to publish a full report of their proceedings as furnished by the Secretary of the Convention, on what he considered a very moderate charge for the labor to be performed, and recommended that the arrangement be made at those rates as more economical than any other way of having such a report published as the House would wish. Mr. RHopes said that he thought it a novel thing for a publisher to be thus paid—that it was certainly his duty to his sub-scribers to publish the proceedings, and asked the Committee to explain what was to be gained by their paying for the work. Explanation was made by Mr. Varigoy and Mr. T. C. Heuck of the Committee, that the limits of the Commercial Advertiser would hardly contain all that the House would wish published. and that to induce the Editor to print what they would consider a full report, he wanted a remuneration, and that he offered to do it cheaper than they could get it done in any other way. Mr. HARRIS said that he thought this a new proceeding. The Mr. Harris said that he thought this a new proceeding. The report of the Legisla ive Assembly, it was a part of the business of the Advertiser to publish; that they usually had to pay a reporter to get it, and that instead of demanding pay to print it, they ought to be grateful to have it furnished them. It was like giving a man merchandise that he wanted, and then paying him to take it away;—that it was as much as telling the House that if they paid him, this man would publish what was true; and if they did not, he would publish what was not true. For his part, if the paper did not wish to publish it, he was for letting it go without, as when he did not attend to his business, it went without attention.

went without attention M. DE VARIGAY explained, protesting that his sympathies were not with the paper in question, but it was a matter of doilars and cents, and the Committee were for having the work done in the cheapest manner for the Government—that the interpretation given to the report was wrong—that the publisher did not threaten to publish an untrue report, but that his re-ports, were he not paid, would necessarily be brief, and not so full as members might wish. These expenditures embrace the payment of the cheapest way should be adopted,—that it was well an authorized report should be printed,-that it was customary for overnments to pay for the printing of authorized reports Mr. Hannis (from his sent.) In Great Britain there is tensible reporter, and no authorized report published. Mr. Castle proceeded to say that he might be mistaken in regard to Great Britain, but then in each State Capital of the United States, and in the National Capital, there was a printer paid to do such printing.

Mr. HARRIS (still from his sent.) I think it would astonish Mr. Castle (bowing to the interruption.) I think they as Mr. RHongs then got the floor, and said that he thought t dignity of the House was insulted by the report—that the gist of it was, that if this House did not pay this man, he would ublish a wrong report. M. DE VARIGNY again attempted to explain that it was not so understood by the Committee, but Mr. Rhodes declared that no same man could put any other interpretation upon it, (leaving, probably, the Honorable Committee in the category of the in-sane,) and that he did not believe in submitting to the degradation; that he would rather vote more money from the Treasury than to submit to such treatment. The Honorable Gentleman grew quite eloquent and statesmanlike (?) alluding to the no-tice in those lines of the paper, saying that "the wise heads of the nation were about to meet.

Mr. HARRIS followed, insisting upon perverting the sense of the Committee, and addressing the House as if it were a jury to be made to believe other than what was proven, and showing the natural result of the elevation of such a man to the position he was in, while his aged colleague supported him with an oc-casional "quite right," "quite right." Mr. Harris insisted that he would prefer paying $100 per week from the Government Treasury, than to employ a man who had called that House "wise heads." He said the laws were printed on the Government press, and he would vote that the reports be also. M. DE VARIGNY rose to explain that he had been appointed with others to provide for the publication of a correct report of the proceedings of the House, and that he entered upon the duty not as a politician, to favor a political friend, for the House well knew he had no cause to favor the Advertiser; but that though he did not like the boat, it was the only one, and the fastest one, and the cheapest one to be had. He proceeded to state that as guardian of the Public Treasury, he would never consent to pay $100 per week for work that could be done for $30; and he would like to know if any one could show a cheaper way than that proposed by the Commi

Mr. HARRIS (with feet on his desk.) Publish a paper our-M. DE VARIGNY.—If gentlemen wish their views published, let them, but I do not believe in using public moneys for that

Mr. Kaapa called up his motion to adjourn, and the House

On Wednesday evening, the discussion of the Committees report was resumed, and from all we can gather, the language of the speakers opposed to our offer, was extremely harsh and personal. Mr. Harris is stated to have said that on returning to his home last evening his blood fairly boiled with indignation at the insult that had been offered to the house by a printer presuming to charge anything for printing its reports, and that he and Mr. Wyllie would rather pay $100 a week out of their own pockets, than submit to any such extortion. "Yes," replied Kaapa, the keen delegate from Hilo, "you'd pay it out of your pockets for two or three weeks, but after that we should find it in the government expenses somewhere." The debate waxed so warm and so personal, that Messrs. de Varigny and Heuck reproved the honorable gentlemen for the language used, and reminded them that that was not the place for

Now we care not one straw whether the Assembly accepts or rejects our offer. It was made in good faith on our part, as the conductor of the only papers printed here; we desired the Assembly to provide its own reports, that there might be no cause of complaint against us regarding them; and we wished it to assist in paying the expense, as we are put to additional and extra outlay in printing them. We also did so, because the late Convention paper of eighteen numbers is reported to have cost the government between $800 and $1,000, including the expense of reporting and a fair valuation for translating, and that the receipts from the paper were not over a quarter of its cost. But, after the discussion that has been had in the Assembly on this subject, and the bitter invectives uttered against us, we beg to withdraw the tender made to the Committee, and thus leave the house at liberty to proceed with its business, without breaking its neck over the Advertiser, and we must decline to have anything to do with reporting the proceedings of the assembly, or at least on the basis proposed. It is amusing to notice in this connection. how ready legislators are to spend the public money where personal spite can be gratified thereby. The Attorney-General is indignant because we asked the Legislatore of $24 a week a begrudges the payment ting variation journeymen printers for setp the reports, but does not blush to come before the country and seek to have his salary raised to $4,000-ave, FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS A YEAR-when the same service has been performed for $2000 or $2500 per annum for the last ten years or more. It is sacrilege to vote the public funds for the honest labor of mechanics-" the mudsills of scciety," as some are pleased to designate us - if we work for the Legislature, but when the pay of professional gentlemen is under discussion, it is patriotism to double it, and tax the poor kanaka to foot the bill! "Oh consistency thou art a jewel !" We cannot close this article without thanking Messrs, de Varigny, Heuck and others for the manly, impartial and honorable stand they took in the debate, first in rebuking statesmen who seek to turn the Legislative hall into a barroom for the indulgence of personalities; and second, for standing up for an economical expenditure of the public moneys.

ANDREWS' DICTIONARY .- In reply to frequent inquiries, we would state that the printing of this book is progressing as rapidly as possible. Two hundred and sixty-four (264) pages are now printed, which is a little more than half the work. It is estimated that the whole number of pages will be about 500, and if no accident happens, it will be completed in February next.

The Yankee, with Son Francisco papers of October 1 and the New York mail of September 8, is overdue, and will probably arrive with the first fair wind. We suppose her to be 20 days out to-day.

His Majesty's Address at the opening of the Legislature will be found on our first page.

U. S. CHRISTIAN COMMISSION .- We would call the attention of our readers to the notice, in another column, inviting the Ladies of Honolulu to meet on Monday next, for the purpose of making arrangements to collect funds, in aid of the U. S. Christian Commission. We learn that it is proposed to give a Tea Party, and combine with it a sale, on or about the 10th of November. Already have the Ladies been collecting funds by subscription, argong themselves, and now they propose to invite all interested in the cause, to assist in the good work. This enterprise has met with almost unprecedented success in various parts of the United States. It is second only to the Sanitary Commission. Both of these enterprises have the cordial approval of the U. S. Government, as well as of the officers in command of the Union Armies. The following letter from Gen. Grant, will indicate his opinion upon this subject :

HEADQUARTERS MIL. DIV. OF THE MISS. In the Field, Chattanooga, Tenn., December 23, 1853 Special Order No. 32. Ex.) All officers holding commands in the Military Division of the Mississippi, are hereby required to extend every facility not inconsistent with the public service, to all Delegates of the United States Christian Commission, and aid them by every legitimate means in their power, to the accomplishment of the benevolent and charitable purposes of the Commission.

Permission will at all times be granted by the proper military authorities to such Delegates to pass to all parts within the lines.

The Commissary Department will at all times sell to such Delegates, upon certificates similar to those given by officers, such stores as they may need for their own use.

Milltary telegraph lines will transmit for such Delegates all messages relating to the business of the Commission. artermaster's Department will, upon application, furnish such Delegates and their stores free transportation upon all government steamers and military railroads, to and from such oints within the Military Division as their duty may requ hem to visit. By order of Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant. GEO. K. LEET, Ass't Adj't General Rev. E. P. Smith, Field Agent, U. S. Christian Commission. The friends of the soldiers of the U.S. Army are endeavoring to raise during the current year, One Million of Dollars for this object. The good people of San Francisco and California, after contributing hundreds of thousands for the Sanitary Commission. have just sent forward their donation of $20,000, to aid the Christian Commission. We need not publish a single paragraph setting forth the claims of this enterprise upon all loyal and loving friends of the American Union. This enterprise proclaims to the world that the American people, are a Christian people, and if compelled to unsheath the sword for the defence of civil government and constitutional liberty, they will do it in a way that after ages and the world shall not reproach them for the want of love, affection and christian sympathy towards the noble-hearted soldiers who are fighting their country's battles. We are glad the Ladies of Honolulu, have undertaken this good work. It may safely be trusted in their hands, and we doubt not the gentlemen will cordially come forward, when summoned into the field. Friends of the cause-Ladies and gentlemen-Planters-Missionaries and well-wishers to the enterprise on the other Islands, will please send forward their contributions in money, or sugar, oranges, or fancy work, or in whatever shape their good sense and generosity may dictate. Contributions will be received by A. J. Cartwright, Esq., H. M. Whitney, Rev. S. C. Damon, Rev. E. Cor win, or to any other agent, whom the donor may select. It is hoped these donations will be forwarded without delay.

WORTHY OF NOTE .- It will be seen by an advertisement in one of the columns of this paper, that the creditors of the assigned estate of our hospitable friend (which many a Honoluluan can testify) Mr. J. D. Havekost, of Wailuku, Maui, are respectfully selicited to walk up to the Captain's office and receive the balance of 100 cents on the dollar. Mr. H. hering found himself involved, at once placed all big property under the hammer for the benefit of all his ereditors, and unlike most assigned estates, turns out the full amount of his obligations; and Mr. H. ande himself re-established in his old quarters at Wallaku, with a new stock of goods, and is well worthy the patronage of a liberal community.

The report of Capt. Bush of the schooner Active, published elsewhere, shows how easily a vessel can become dismasted in a calm. She was at the time becalmed near the equator, where the cross swells are very heavy, and her foremast was literally jerked out of its place, and swung for a day at the mercy of the sea, between the main-stays and mast, chafing the latter so badly that a new mainmast will be required. From this it will be seen that a calm sea can make a sloop out of a schooner in far less time than our smartest ship-carpenters can make a schooner out of a sloop.
